- Revenue: 1.855 billion VND.
- Profit before tax: VND 155 billion.
- Dividend payment for 2026: expected to be at least 18% per year.

Depending on the actual situation, the Board of Directors will proactively adjust the economic and technical targets to the best of their ability.

4.4 The Company's short-term and medium-term sustainable development goals (environment, social, and community) and key programs are as follows:

- Maintain the mobilization of social and charitable funds and utilize these funds for social and community purposes.
- Focus on training and developing human resources, contributing to community and social development.
- The company's trade union should further promote its union activities for the benefit of the employees.
- Actively participate in and maintain activities to protect a green, clean, and beautiful environment. Practice saving energy, electricity, water, etc. Reduce wastewater and waste released into the environment; ensure fire safety in the locality and community.

5. Risks/difficulties affecting the Company's operations

- The global economy is expected to recover slowly in 2025, with stable, low growth (around 2.8-3.2%).
- Geopolitical and trade instability: New waves of tariffs and trade tensions (such as between the US and its partners) create risks to global growth, prompting diversification of supply chains.
- Inflation and monetary policy: Inflation is trending downward but remains under pressure, with central banks maintaining cautious policies.
- Artificial Intelligence (AI) is a bright spot: AI is booming, moving from experimentation to widespread application, triggering a wave of massive investment in data centers and semiconductors.
- The Vietnamese economy in 2025 faces numerous challenges stemming from global fluctuations such as trade protectionism, geopolitical tensions, high interest rates, and the risk of a trade deficit, along with internal challenges including inflationary pressure, an aging population, labor shortages, and severe climate change. Growth relies heavily on FDI and public investment, while the domestic sector is recovering slowly.
- The shortage of trained workers in the printing and packaging industry continues.
- High interest rates and exchange rates are putting pressure on production costs. The trade balance shows signs of a deficit, especially with the US, posing exchange rate risks.
