Principles of Deferred Corporate Income Tax

Deferred Income Tax Assets

Deferred Income Tax Assets represent corporate income tax amounts that will be recoverable in the future, based on deductible temporary differences.

Deferred income tax assets are recognized when it is certain that taxable profits will be available in the future to utilize these temporary differences between tax and accounting bases. The carrying amount of deferred income tax assets is reviewed at the end of the financial year and is reduced to the extent that sufficient taxable profits are no longer assured to allow the benefits of all or part of the deferred tax assets to be utilized.

Deferred income tax assets are measured at the tax rates expected to apply in the year the asset is recovered, based on the tax rates effective at the end of the financial year.

Deferred Income Tax Liabilities

Deferred Income Tax Liabilities represent corporate income tax amounts that will be payable in the future, based on taxable temporary differences.

Deferred income tax liabilities are recognized for all taxable temporary differences.

TRANSPORT ENGINEERING DESIGN INCORPORATED

Separate Financial Statements

For the period from 01/01/2026 to 30/06/2026

Deferred income tax liabilities are measured using the prevailing corporate income tax rates.

Prepaid Expenses

Prepaid expenses represent actual costs that have been incurred but are related to the operational results of multiple accounting periods. These costs are allocated to the production and business expenses of subsequent accounting periods.

Prepaid expenses are recognized at historical cost and are classified as either short-term or long-term on the Balance Sheet, depending on the prepayment period of each contract.

Other long-term prepaid expenses include tools, equipment, and small components that are considered capable of generating future economic benefits for the Corporation over a period of 1 year or more. These costs are gradually allocated to the Income Statement using the straight-line method over a period of 2 years.

Payables

The payables shall be recorded in details in terms of due date, entities payable, types of currency and other factors according to the requirements for management of the Company. Liabilities include payables to suppliers and other payables, which are liabilities that are almost certain in value and timing and are recorded at no less than the obligation to pay, classified as follows:

Accounts payable to suppliers include trade payables arising from transactions for the purchase of goods, services, and assets between the Corporation and suppliers (who are independent entities from the Corporation, including payables between the parent company and subsidiaries, joint ventures, and affiliates).

Other payables include non-commercial payables, unrelated to the purchase and sale of goods and services.

Principle of recognizing loans and financial lease liabilities

Including loans and financial lease liabilities, excluding loans in the form of bonds or preferred shares with a mandatory buyback clause for the issuer at a specific point in the future.

The Corporation monitors loans and financial leases in detail by each debtor and classifies them as short-term and long-term based on the repayment period.

Costs directly related to the loan are recorded as financial expenses, except for costs arising from loans specifically for investment, construction, or production of unfinished assets, which are capitalized according to the Borrowing Costs Accounting Standard.

Borrowing costs

Borrowing costs are recognized as operating expenses in the period, in which it is incurred excepting those which are directly attributable to the construction or production of a qualifying asset are capitalized as part of the cost of that asset in accordance with VAS No. 16 "Borrowing costs". Accordingly, borrowing costs directly related to the purchase, investment in construction, or production of assets that require a relatively long time to complete and be put into use or operation are added to the asset's original cost until the asset is put into use or operation. Income arising from the temporary investment of loans is deducted from the original value of the related assets. For loans specifically for the construction of fixed assets and investment properties, interest on the loans is capitalized even if the construction period is less than 12 months.

Accrued expenses

Accrued expenses refer to actual costs that have not yet been paid but are provisionally allocated to production and business expenses during the period. This ensures that when the actual expenses arise, they do not cause significant fluctuations in production and business costs, while maintaining the principle of matching revenues and expenses.

The Corporation recognizes accrued expenses based on the following main cost components:

- Provision for employee wages.
- Provision for subcontracting costs based on completed project volumes that have been certified and revenue recognized, leading to the corresponding allocation of cost of goods sold.

Principles of Recording Unearned Revenue

Unearned revenue includes: revenue received in advance (such as payments collected in advance from customers over multiple accounting periods for asset or infrastructure leases, interest received in advance from loans or purchases of debt instruments); and other unearned revenues (such as the difference between the selling price for deferred or installment payments as per agreement and the immediate payment price, revenue corresponding to the value of goods, services, or discounts provided to customers under loyalty programs, etc.). It excludes: advance payments from buyers for which the corporation has not yet delivered products, goods, or services; and revenue not yet collected from multi-period asset leasing or service provision activities.

Revenue received in advance is allocated on a straight-line basis over the periods for which payment has been received.

Owner's equity

Owner's Investment: The owner's investment is recognized based on the actual contributed capital by the owner.

Share Premium: Share premium is recognized as the positive or negative difference between the actual issuance price and the par value of shares during initial issuance, additional issuance, or the re-issuance of treasury shares.

Convertible Bond Stock Options: Stock options for convertible bonds are recognized under "Other Equity" as the difference between the total proceeds from issuing convertible bonds and the debt component of the convertible bonds at the time of issuance.

Equity Structure: The current equity structure of the Corporation consists solely of common voting shares.

Asset Revaluation Surplus: This reflects the differences resulting from the revaluation of existing assets and the handling of those differences by the company. Assets subject to revaluation are primarily fixed assets, although in some necessary cases, materials, tools, equipment, and work-in-progress products may also be revalued.

Undistributed Profits: Undistributed profits are determined based on post-corporate income tax business results and the allocation of profits or handling of losses by the Corporation.

Post-Tax Profit Distribution: The Corporation's post-tax profit is allocated as dividends to shareholders after approval by the Annual General Meeting of Shareholders and after deductions for reserves as stipulated in the Corporation's Charter.

Dividend Declaration and Payment: Dividends are declared and paid based on estimated profits. Official dividends are declared and paid in the following fiscal year from undistributed profits, subject to approval by the Annual General Meeting of Shareholders.

Equity Reserves: Reserves under equity are established based on the Corporation's Charter and resolutions of the Annual General Meeting of Shareholders each year.

Revenue

Revenue is recognized to extent that it is probable that the economic benefits will flow to the Company which can be reliably measured and the revenue can be reliably measures regardless of when payment is being made. Revenue is measured at the fair value of the consideration received, excluding discounts, rebates, and sales returns.

The amount of the revenue can be measured reliably.

It is probable that the economic benefits associated with the transaction will flow to the Company; and

The percentage of completion of the transaction at the Balance sheet date can be measured reliably.

Determine the costs incurred for the transaction and the costs to complete the service transaction.

For interest, dividends, shared profits, and other income: Revenue is recognized when the Corporation is likely to obtain economic benefits from these activities and when such benefits can be reliably measured.

Revenue deductions

Revenue deductions from service provisions arising in the year are trade discounts.

Trade discounts incurred in the same year of rendering of services are recorded as a decrease in revenue in the incurring year. In case services are sold in the previous years, but until the next year they are incurred as deductible items, the Company records the decrease in revenue under the following principles: If it is incurred prior to the issuance of Financial Statements, it is then recorded as a decrease in revenue on the Interim Separate Financial Statements of the reporting year (the previous year); and if it is incurred after the issuance of Interim Separate Financial Statements, it is recorded as a decrease in revenue of incurring year (the next year).

Cost of services rendered

The recognition of cost of services rendered is matched against revenue in the period and complies with the prudence basis.

For direct material costs exceeding the normal consumption level, labor costs, and unallocated fixed manufacturing overheads that are not included in the value of inventory, these costs are recognized directly as the cost of goods sold (after deducting any compensation, if applicable), even if the products or goods have not yet been identified as sold.

Financial expenses

Losses related to financial investment activities:

Losses from capital contribution to external investments: Recognized based on actual occurrences.

Losses on securities investments: Recorded for each type of listed and unlisted securities on the market when the market price falls below the book value recorded in the accounting books.

Costs of joint venture capital contributions and securities transfers: Based on actual occurrences.

Exchange rate loss costs: Recognized when there is a discrepancy between the actual exchange rate and the accounting book rate or when losses arise from the revaluation of monetary items denominated in foreign currency.

Principles and Methods of Recognizing Current and Deferred Corporate Income Tax Expenses

Corporate Income Tax Expense (or Corporate Income Tax Assets): This represents the total of current corporate income tax expenses and deferred corporate income tax expenses expected to be paid to (or recovered from) tax authorities when determining the profit or loss of a period.

Current Corporate Income Tax Expense:

This is the amount of corporate income tax payable, calculated based on taxable income for the year and the applicable corporate income tax rate. The tax payable is determined based on taxable income and the tax rate applicable during the tax period. The taxable income differs from accounting profit due to adjustments made for differences between accounting profit and taxable income in accordance with current tax policies.

Deferred Corporate Income Tax Expense:

This refers to the corporate income tax that will be payable in the future as a result of:

Recognizing deferred corporate income tax liabilities during the year;

Reversing previously recognized deferred corporate income tax assets;

Accounting Estimates

The preparation of financial statements is in compliance with Vietnamese Accounting Standards, the Vietnamese Enterprise Accounting System, and relevant legal regulations on the preparation and presentation of financial statements. These require the Management Board to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported figures of liabilities, assets, and the presentation of contingent liabilities and assets as of the date of the financial statements, as well as reported figures for revenue and expenses throughout the financial year. Actual business results may differ from these estimates and assumptions.
